

Resume

Islam Mohamed Mahmoud Khalil
Position	Lecturer
Field of Study	Economics
Specialization	Applied Microeconomics
Current position	Lecturer of Economics at the Regional Development Centre
Career Progression	• Lecturer of Economics (September 2023 – Present). • Researcher and Assistant Lecturer (May 2018 – September 2023). • Assistant Researcher and Teaching Assistant (March 2011 – May 2018).
Academic Qualifications	• PhD in Economics, Deakin University, Australia (2023). Dissertation: Three Essays on Education and Health Economics. • MPhil in Industrial Policy, University of Johannesburg, South Africa (2018). • B.Sc. in Economics, Minor in Statistics, Faculty of Economics and Political Sciences, Cairo University, Egypt (2010).
Academic Experience	• Taught Microeconomic Theory I and II at the Institute of National Planning (2024 – 2025). • Served as Research and Teaching Assistant, Deakin University, Australia (2021 – 2023). • Presented at Natural Experiments in History: Development, Health and Labour, Melbourne (2021). • Presented at Ph.D. Conference in Economics and Business, Monash University (2020). • Presented at Departmental Seminars, Deakin University (2020 – 2021).

Research	• Khalil, I., Mallick, D., and Nicholas, A. (2025). Does Less Education Harm Health? Evidence from a Natural Experiment in a Developing Country. Oxford Bulletin of Economics and Statistics, 87(4), 751–770. • Khalil, I. (2023). The Impact of Early Maternal Age on Early Childhood Mortality: Evidence from Egypt. MPRA Paper No. 127992 (under review). • Early-Life Shocks and Adult Outcomes: A Critical Analysis of the Developing Countries Literature (work in progress).
Research Interests	Applied Microeconomics; Development Economics; Human Capital; Applied Econometrics; Causal Inference.
Email	i.mahmoud@inp.edu.eg